John Doane, University Health Science Clinics, Department of Internal Medicine

Dr. John Doane is a full-time practicing General Internist and Assistant Professor (Clinical) in the Division of General Internal Medicine at University of Utah Health Sciences Center with 20 years experience in both inpatient and outpatient care. He attended Stanford University (AB, Human Biology) and received his medical degree at Wake Forest School of Medicine prior to residency training at the University of Utah in internal medicine.

